Market Opportunity

We believe there is a market for crap car because we're the most eco-friendly company out there, that is all about reduce, recycle and reuse. Our solution is better than the competition because it utilizes an environmentally friendly fuel source that is abundant and won't cause any more additional issues, and the fuel source is easily obtainable and of course natural. Our closest competition would be electric car companies such as Toyota and Tesla and companies that use vegetable oil to power their cars. We are all trying to find an alternative fuel other than gasoline.
